THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

Again Our Wrath Subsides

Washington, March 28.

ONE OF the most discouraging things in this country is the extraordinary manner in which the righteous wrath of the people evaporates as soon as a crisis eases. This flabby characteristic is the thing upon which unscrupulous demagogues count. Knowledge of it enables them to achieve and retain power. As much as anything, it is responsible for the major domestic ills with which we are afflicted.

—o—

TAKE, for example, the present status of legislation affecting labor unions. Until recently, for some months a series of great and small strikes threatened not only the comfort and convenience of the people but the actual economic life of the entire nation. Some of these were fomented by avowed advocates of the violent overthrow of our system. One—the transit tie-up in New York, averted at the last minute—was aimed directly at the municipal government. Others threatened public utilities without which life itself would be extremely difficult. The most menacing of all were the strikes of the CIO, in which the Communist influence is potent.

—o—

INTENSE public indignation was aroused. By an overwhelming vote the House passed the Case strike control bill, which, while by no means perfect, did offer some public protection. The bill then went to the Senate Committee on Education and Labor. Despite the record of this committee, prompt passage was expected. But before public indignation, measurably, though not intelligently, appeased by House action, could be focused upon the calculated committee delay, the worst strikes, through governmental interference and at great cost, were settled, and the crisis eased.

—o—

IMMEDIATELY and automatically public indignation waned. Popular interest diminished and popular pressure on Congress relaxed. People, generally, sank back into a false security, still believing that "something should be done" but no longer impelled to insist. As a result, this CIO-packed committee, which in the past, has smothered every House regulatory bill it got its hands on, has been able, again, with impunity, to thwart the desire of the public and the will of the House. It does this largely through its chairman, Senator James Murray, of Montana.

—o—

THOUGH a multimillionaire, Senator Murray, nevertheless, is an honest man. This makes the bias under which he labors the more dangerous. That on the subject of organized labor he is the most biased, altogether one-sided member of the Senate is hardly a matter of dispute. His record proclaims it. With unwavering consistency he appears to take the CIO view which is that any corrective labor legislation, no matter how mild, is vicious. He—and the CIO—regard all attempts to lessen the most glaring abuses as an effort to "destroy the

SERIOUS, BUT NOT NECESSARILY A FATAL, RIFT CLOVEN IN UNSC; AUGUST BODY IS TO MEET WITH RUSSIAN DELEGATE ATTENDING

Andrei Gromyko, Russian Delegate, Assured That Only 'Procedural' Matters Will Be Discussed at Today's Closed Session—Gromyko Agrees to Attend.

By George Durno
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Mar. 28—(INS)—A serious—but not necessarily fatal—rift had been cloven into the United Nations Security Council today as that august international body prepared to meet behind closed doors with Russian delegate Andrei Gromykn in attendance.

Gromyko dramatically stalked out of the Council chamber yesterday after the Council, by a 9-2 vote, turned down the Russian petition for delay of the Iranian complaint that Soviet Russia had overrun parts of Iran and coerced and intimidated the small but oil-rich country.

The Russian ambassador went directly from the Council to the Soviet Consul General's office in midtown Manhattan. Gromyko was unquestionably in closest touch with Moscow by cable.

Shortly after midnight, Arkady Sobolev, Assistant UNO Secretary-General, called on Gromyko. Soviet sources said Sobolev brought a message from Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the UNO, assuring Gromyko that only "procedural" matters will be discussed at today's closed session.

With the understanding that the Iran charges would not be discussed, Gromyko is said to have consented to be present.

Activities of Interest To All in The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Consolidation of the three parent-teacher associations of Warrington township took place at a meeting held in the Street Road School, Neshaminy, this week, under the auspices of the Warrington Parent-Teacher Association.

Previously the township had three parent-teacher associations, Warrington, Mill Creek and Neshaminy. The Mill Creek association suspended meetings during the war. The organization will be known as the Warrington Township Parent-Teacher Association.

Approximately 75 persons, representing the three schools in the district, attended the meeting, which was in charge of the president, Henry Swartz, Jr.

With band music, three five minute talks and emceeing by Joseph Kenny, the Doylestown high school band presented a welcome home G. I. concert last week.

Supervising Principal J. Leonard Halderman, who welcomed the men back, said "Thirty-one young men and women, who attended this school, have been called on to pay the supreme sacrifice and will stay on foreign soil forever. We won the shooting war, now we must win the peace. We have to outlaw war."

Flight Officer Philip B. Ingalls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ingalls, Quakertown, R. D. 2, who had been reported missing in action last August, has now been declared officially dead.

A telegram received from the War Department advised his parents that their son was killed in action over Honshu on August 1, 1945.

Ingalls was the pilot of a Mustang fighter and had been in the Pacific area for several months before his fatal flight.

BEAUTICIAN STILL IN UNCONSCIOUS STATE

Stella Pleva Believed To Have Taken Overdose of Sleeping Tablets

ADMINISTER OXYGEN

Believed to have taken an overdose of sleeping tablets, Miss Stella Pleva, 23, an employee of a local beauty shop, remains in an unconscious condition at Harriman Hospital. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pleva, 2213 Wilson avenue.

Oxygen is being administered by Bucks County Rescue Squad in an attempt to revive the young woman who is believed to have been unconscious since Tuesday night.

Discovery of her condition was made by Miss Pleva's mother when she made an attempt to arouse the daughter at nine o'clock yesterday morning. The young woman had retired about 11 o'clock Tuesday night, and the family did not hear her about during the night. At nine yesterday morning Mrs. Pleva called Stella, but had no response. Investigation showed that Stella was unconscious. A physician was summoned, but attempts to revive the girl were futile. At three o'clock yesterday afternoon she was removed by the rescue squad to Harriman Hospital, where the squad has been administering oxygen ever since. Shortly before noon today, hospital officials stated that she had not regained consciousness.

According to Mr. Pleva, his daughter had been in the habit, when unable to sleep, of taking sleeping tablets. Whether she had taken some on Tuesday night the family is not certain, but they knew she had used them when nervous and unable to rest.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The Soviet Union walked out of the UNO Security Council session late yesterday afternoon after the Russian proposal to defer consideration of the Iranian question until April 10 had been defeated, 9 to 2. Only Russia and Poland voted for it. When it became evident that Iranian Ambassador Ala would be invited to the table to present his case, Ambassador Gromyko announced he was unable to participate further in the discussions or remain present, picked up his papers and departed.

Mr. Gromyko's withdrawal was in conformity with strict instructions from Moscow. He immediately communicated with the Kremlin. The Soviet delegate gave no indication of his future actions. Oscar Lange, Poland's delegate, characterized the Soviet departure as an "absence, not a withdrawal," and while he defended Mr. Gromyko's action declared that Poland would continue in attendance.

Russia, at the Moscow conferences with Prime Minister Ghavam, instead of agreeing to withdraw from Iran, made counter-proposals that were unacceptable, Mr. Ala disclosed to the Council. The Russians said Soviet troops would remain in some parts of Iran "for an indefinite period;" they demanded recognition of Azerbaijan's autonomy and proposed a joint Soviet-Iranian oil company in which Russia would hold 51 per cent of the stock. There have been no further discussions or agreements, he said

Official sources in Teheran confirmed the lack of any agreement.

The day of debate was marked by frequent sharp exchanges. The Council will meet in executive session this afternoon.

The Military Staff Committee began work on the international police force to maintain world security and peace through the UNO.

Russian Naval Lieutenant Redin was held in $25,000 bail in Portland, Ore., on espionage charges that Soviet officials called a "frame-up" to damage Russian prestige. He was accused of having induced some unnamed person to obtain data about the destroyer-tender Yellowstone, described as a "floating shipyard."

The British Labor party attacked Communists and dissident left-wingers in a manifesto rejecting a proposal to affiliate with the Communist party, which was accused of harboring fifth columnists.

In that country, observers saw a rebuke to leftists in the labor movement in the defeat of R. J. Thomas

1½-Lb. Baby Gains Three Pounds In Three Months

A mite of a baby which first saw the light of day in Bristol—"weighing in" at 1½ pounds—has trebled its poundage in three months.

The little fellow is William Lewis Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Foster, Dixon avenue, Maple Shade, who since the day following birth here has been in an incubator at a Philadelphia Hospital.

From the meagre 24 ounces little "Billy" has gotten to the point where he tips the scales at 4½ pounds.

Born on Christmas Day he has ever since birth, in spite of his tiny body, kept a firm grip on life, and even at the tender age of two weeks had commenced gaining splendidly.

The Fosters have one other child, a girl.

WHAT BARUCH ADVISES

Because OPA is news, and newspaper space is crowded, three words out of the Bernard M. Baruch statement to Congress received more attention than all the other 3000 words together. The three words were:

"Continue price control."

The impression was widespread that, with those three words, Baruch sided completely with Chester Bowles and President Truman, and that he repudiated the criticisms of OPA voiced by countless groups and individuals.

Nothing could be more false.

Baruch's statement was a sizzling indictment of the OPA and of the economic fallacies and program of the Truman regime.

What he said about price controls was as follows:

> "Continue price controls, subject to indicated modifications, for a year. Allow profit but no profiteering."

What were the "indicated modifications" in his suggestion? The principal one is that mentioned in the same quotation—restrict the OPA to preventing the type of exploitation of shortages which we call profiteering.

But if you think he agrees with the Bowles price-line program, consider the following further modifications he suggests.

> "Stop bunking the people by saying wage increases can be granted without increase in price levels. . . . Price control by itself will not be effective. . . . Piecemeal price fixing will not halt inflation. . . . Individual rises in prices destroy the relationship between various costs, requiring even greater adjustments.

ONE MAN'S OPINION . . .

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

UNO HALL, Mar. 28—(Delayed by pigeons)—Hello America!

When a Chinese talks in English and it is translated into French for the Russians you can see why the Dove of Peace wears a worried look.

That is why there is no applause for speeches. Half the delegates are afraid they don't understand and the other half are afraid they do.

And neither wishes to be caught applauding what might be a bi-lateral blot on their unilateral escutcheon . . . not with escutcheons so hard to come by . . . and pronounce. The language of the conference is French and English until Moscow rushes an authentic translation of Bronx.

The most worried looking spectators is Borough President Lyons . . . he has no assurance yet that Russia plans to evacuate her delegates at the end of the conference.

But don't get discouraged. There is grave danger of this thing coming out right.

Mrs. Leo Riley, of Croydon, was the presiding officer.

Money gifts were sent to three men in the service; and arrangements made to assist a girl who is ill.

NORTHAMPTON AND NEWTOWN SCHOOL DIS'TS TO MERGE

"Important Step Towards Improving Secondary School Opportunities"

A TEMPORARY PLAN

New School Set-Up To Be Operated By Joint Board of Five Units

The merging of the Northampton and Newtown high schools on July 1st was announced today by Dr. H. A. Roberts, of Newtown, who is the temporary secretary of the organization which will operate a senior high school of grades 9-12 at Newtown and a junior high school at Richboro of grades seven and eight. "This is the most important step taken towards improving secondary school opportunities in this area since 1914," it was stated.

This plan is a temporary arrangement. The new school set-up will be operated by a joint board comprising of Newtown Township, Newtown Borough, Upper Makefield Township, Northampton Township, and Wrightstown Township. All of the school boards, each by unanimous vote, decided to begin the operation of the new program at the end of this school year. A saving to the local districts of from $6000 to $10,000 is estimated. James Carnwath, of Newtown Township, was made chairman of the committee selected to determine the name of the new school and other important matters.

Each school district will name two members to an executive committee of 10 which will take immediate steps to effect the merger. William Satterthwaite is preparing the agreement. County Superintendent, Charles H. Boehm, is chairman of the temporary organization.

LEARNING THRIFT EARLY

The policy of giving children real experience in the handling of money at home and at school is receiving considerable attention these days. The text of a symposium recently released by the Child Study Association of America deals with this subject. It was asserted that children must learn about money earlier today because they actually begin to use money sooner, and the lessons learned in the family help to shape their outlook on giving and receiving, on spending and saving.

It was pointed out that when families lived on the land and children were an economic asset, the situation was different than it is today. Under such circumstances families were not so dependent on money for their security. When difficulties arose in the form of sickness or accident, relatives and neighbors came to the rescue. It may well be that as the number of urban residents increased, the fact of dependence on money for family security was not sufficiently impressed upon children in many instances, insofar as teaching them how to handle money was concerned.

It was suggested that a regular allowance for children be looked on as an educational device, but that some foolish spending is inevitable as children learn. Experiments conducted at school also were described. Boys and girls of thirteen who administered a school lunchroom learned the technique of making a budget and estimating costs, including overhead, and thus gained experiences over and above those of drill in arithmetic. Through group earning and spending, children appreciate the relative value of money and the social and financial responsibility involved in its use.

That thrift is needed in America today is apparent in many realms, including Government. Yet, it must be said that the Federal Government in recent years has been teaching a lesson of thrift to many of Uncle Sam's nephews and nieces. Many persons, receiving not much higher salaries than they received before the war, are paying income taxes to Uncle Sam each year far in excess of amounts they themselves saved in a similar period before the conflict began. But it is all to the good that other agencies are placing more emphasis on teaching the wise use of money.

Speaking of the brave, there is Herbert Hoover, again offering himself as a sacrifice on the altar of dark bread.

Writer of speeches for several big politicians discloses the secret of his success. He never puts a four-syllable word in a one-syllable mouth.

Democrats will try to restore harmony at sumptuous repasts. After-dinner speakers should be careful not to undo anything the cooks may accomplish.

That "bulge" in the price line, as President Truman described it, seems to have reacted in reverse on the stock market.

"The gold dust thrown in all our eyes by political abacadabra only confuses, with gain to no one except temporary power to the economic magicians. . . . The price structure is out of gear. I never favored subsidies; but they have become a part of this tottering price edifice. I would continue those now in effect. I WOULD GIVE NO MORE."

Does that sound like a clean bill of health for the OPA and the Bowles-Truman scheme of passing part of today's grocery bill over to the taxes of our grandchildren?

Baruch, so-called "elder statesman" and "adviser to presidents," actually recommended an entire program, of which temporary continuance of price-controls was merely a detail. The chain had fourteen links, and a brief extension of OPA was only one of the series.

What Baruch calls for principally is deflation of the government. OPA, under this plan, would be preserved only during the process, and would liquidate itself within the year.

In other words, he fully agrees with such groups as NAM that the proper goal is free economy, and differs only in the fact that NAM proposes making the change in a single step while he plans to ease into it during twelve months.

The most eloquent Republican or most bitter Southern Democrat has made no more drastic proposals for the revision of the Truman program than Baruch seriously urges.

The one detail of subsidies, mentioned above, is almost revolutionary; Baruch's stand would, for instance, smash at a single step the entire National Housing Program the President has demanded, for the key to that plan is a new list of subsidies.

Baruch would refuse to issue the British Loan—"I am not opposed to helping foreign nations. But, until production warrants it, I am opposed to lending them money or assistance except for direct needs. . . ."

And he says elsewhere: "Take stock before blindly lending—make inventories of our goods, our cash, our credit, before we increase the pressure on them."

All the political foot-work which has been going on between the White House and the CIO-PAC leadership is brushed aside by Baruch with a demand for a one-year moratorium on strikes.

Were President Truman to take Baruch's advice, he would find it necessary to re-write his entire thirty-six billion dollar budget. This is true on three counts.

First, Baruch warns of the deadly economic dangers in the process by which President Truman sought to make it appear his budget substantially balanced and national debts were to be reduced—use of the so-called "surplus" in the Treasury, which is really part of the debts of the nation, as though it were cash. Such measures he describes correctly as "currency inflation" and says: "there lies a grave menace-money increase."

Second, again and again Baruch calls upon the Administration to "cut Government costs"—they are to be "cut to the bone." Undoubtedly Baruch is disturbed by the fact that the padded Federal payroll, with its two million "war workers" still on the job, is wasting more each year than the entire proposed 50-year loan to Great Britain.

Third, Baruch violently criticizes, by implication at least, the Truman idea that taxes and expenditures need have no relationship. He demands a national budget at the lowest possible level, and then an honest tax program to cover it; he would wipe out all the subsidy schemes, borrowings and fund-jugglings by which the Truman budget is disguised.

In still another point Baruch makes a recommendation which indicts the New Deal for its policy towards the judiciary. He asks the creation of a "High Court of Commerce," the principal function of which would be to protect large and small businessmen from manhandling by Washington bureaucrats. The Constitution itself set up such a "high court"—the judiciary; Baruch's recommendation merely calls attention to the fact that the courts have been so "packed" and by-passed that they no longer are open for the redress of wrongs to the individual.

Under all the circumstances, those who are at loggerheads with the OPA price program will find far more comfort in the strictures of Baruch than will the members of the White House official family.

back over many years. A new guide for school board secretaries was also presented to each school secretary, and also many forms to be used in the school system.

The school board secretaries were disturbed by changes in the law concerning school tax collector. It was generally felt that there is a possibility that the school districts are not protected for the entire school year. The secretary felt that the school law should be clarified in several respects relating to the tax collectors bond. It was also hoped that the length of the school bus contracts should be extended to from three to six years, and that the state law should be changed to permit the state to approve the contract for that entire period.

GET NEW COMMISSIONS

George Blosch, Andalusia, has accepted the position of assistant district commissioner, Bucks County Scouts, and Herbert Pettit, Jr., Bristol, has taken on the duties of neighborhood commissioner. These men are "old hands" at the game of Scouting and they intend to use their experience to give better Scouting to more boys. Pettit will serve Pack 2, and Troops 2, 25 and 7, all of Bristol. Blosch will assist the district commissioner. William Fryckberg, of Eddington, is district commissioner of lower Bucks district. He is looking for four more men to complet the commissioner staff. Together with Cubmasters, Scoutmasters and committeemen all these volunteers will endeavor to put the Boy Scout program in "high gear" in this part of the county to such a degree that the community will be prouder than ever of the type of boys who come through the ranks of Cub packs and Scout troops. The slogan is: "Bucks County's Finest."

AGREEABLE SURPRISE

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Department of Agriculture has announced that the first loaves of bread made from the new 80 per cent extraction flour have proved "an agreeable surprise." The bread was made under commercial baking conditions, thus offering a preview of the loaves soon to be on the market. Tasters could detect no difference in flavor or texture from the regular bread.

The Great Game of Politics

unions," to "rob labor of all the gains it has won in a generation of struggle."

—o—

HOW Mr. Murray got to be so completely CIO is hard to say. But that is the way he is. More than any dozen men in the country, he stands in the way of sound and terribly needed labor legislation. His position as chairman of the Labor Committee means that all labor bills go into his hands. Heretofore, he has been strong enough to choke the worth-while bills. Usually his system is to hold long hearings and then just pigeonhole the proposals. That is what he has done to the Ball-Burton-Hatch bill, which is the fairest and most comprehensive of them all. With the Case bill, this plan was hardly feasible. So what Mr. Murray and his friends have done is to so emasculate it that the most ardent CIO lobbyist could not object.

—o—

THE denatured bill will be reported to the Senate and there is not much chance it can, by amendment, be made an effective law. Senator Murray has been able to do this largely because, with the settlement of the larger strikes and the passing of the immediate crisis, public interest and indignation sagged. Probably Mr. Murray conceives himself justified in this kind of business. But many of his colleagues think he is doing the American people as a whole a great disservice.

—o—

WITH public pressure relaxed, and the Administration and its political agent, Chairman Hannegan, obviously afraid of the CIO, there is little they can do. The prospects for a real corrective bill at this session are now admittedly poor. Next year, in all probability, the whole discreditable performance will be repeated. The unions will afflict us with another series of disastrous strikes. The public again will become incensed and the House will pass a bill. Then the strikes will be settled, the crisis pass and the public wrath subside sufficiently to enable Senator Murray, or some other CIO instrument in his post, to flim-flam us again. The basic trouble, of course, is the apparently incurable supineness of the unorganized voters.

Have Ham For Easter

It needn't be a whole ham to make an Easter feast. Half of a ham, done to a turn and elegantly sugared and spiced and wined, is festive and quite adequate for any moderately sized gathering.

Preparing an Easter ham used to be something of a mystical rite—and one that occupied the cook for hours on end! In bygone days, ham called for a long parboiling before it was at last ready for the oven. Colonial cooks used wine to achieve the distinction and special flavor delicacy in which they prided themselves. Just which wine types were used and how much was a carefully guarded secret in most well managed kitchens.

It's an open secret nowadays and the results are so universally satisfactory that cooks who have tried adding wine to a baking ham, come to consider the bottle of wine as essential as brown sugar and cloves in the preparation of the Easter ham.

Sherry has always been the top ranking wine favorite for use in baking a ham, but virtually any wine type adds delicate bouquet and flavor to the Easter ham. About one pint of wine is enough to provide a fine wine glaze to form the basis of a flavorsome raisin sauce to serve with the ham.

The preparation of the ham has been greatly simplified for modern cooks. The pre-cooked hams on the market need only to be heated through and glazed before serving. Regular smoked half hams require about two and one-half hours of baking in a moderately low oven (325 degrees F.)—or about 22 minutes per pound . A whole ham needs 15-18 minutes per pound or from three to four hours.

Glasses of any variety of red or white table wine are good choices for service with the Easter ham.

Baked Ham, Sherry Glaze and Sherry-Raisin Sauce

Half ham
24 whole cloves
1 cup brown sugar
2 cups Sherry wine
1 cup raisins
1 cup water and ¼ cup sugar or
1 cup syrup from canned fruit
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon salt

Bake the ham on an open roasting rack in a moderately low oven (325 degrees F.) for 22 minutes per pound or to an internal temperature of 150 degrees. (Pre-coooked ham needs only to be heated before glazing.) Set oven temperature to moderately hot (400 degrees F.). Remove the skin and score the surface of the ham. Stud with cloves. Pour ½ cup of the Sherry wine over the surface of the ham slowly. Rub with brown sugar. Bake 10 minutes. Drip another ½ cup Sherry wine over the sugared ham surface very slowly. Return to oven for another 5 to 10 minutes or until ham is glazed.

Cook raisins in water for 10 minutes. Blend corn starch, sugar, mustard and salt with water or blend corn starch, mustard and salt with the fruit syrup. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened and clear. Add the raisins and the remaining 1 cup of wine. Heat to boiling.

Are You Eating Enough Foods Rich In Iron?

If you've noticed a feeling of listlessness in yourself lately, you may have called it a case of spring fever—but it could be a sign that you're not eating the right foods. Perhaps you should make a special effort to include in your diet more of the foods that are rich in iron.

It is a fact that listlessness is one of the symptoms of nutritional anemia; another is paleness or lack of color. A good many people have what is called a "borderline case" of anemia; they are not really sick, but they have a tendency to be "anemic."

This condition is caused chiefly by a lack of iron in the system. Iron is an essential part of the red coloring matter of the blood, or hemoglobin. This substance not only makes the blood a rich red color, but it also carries oxygen to all the cells in the body. This is an important job—for the cells must have oxygen in order to burn the foods we eat and create energy. When the body does not get all the iron it needs, the hemoglobin supply gets low, and the body is not able to utilize food properly—so a lack of energy results.

The need for iron varies at different ages and with different people. The ones who need the most are infants, adolescent boys and girls, and pregnant and nursing women. The need is also high whenever there has been a loss of blood—as, for example, when you have given a pint of blood to the Blood Bank.

Not all of the iron in the food we eat is used by the body; so it is important to eat a good supply of foods that are rich in this mineral. The iron in animal foods is used more readily by the body than the iron in most vegetable foods.

Liver supplies more iron than any other food, and pork liver contains more than twice as much as beef liver. All meats are a rich source of this mineral; an average serving supples about one-fourth of an adult's body for the day. Other foods which are good sources of iron are oysters, green vegetables, legumes, fowl, potatoes, dried fruits, eggs, and whole grain or enriched cereal products.

In Memoriam 3

LIGHT—Iola R. In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, died March 28, 1938.
They say time heals a broken heart,
But, oh, it isn't true,
Because eight long years, dear Mother,
Our hearts have asked for you.
As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memories you are always near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
For to us you were so dear,
Mother's gone but not forgotten,
As dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of her are always near.
We are sad within our memories,
Lonely in our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever been called away.
Sadly missed and never forgotten by her

GIVE LAST YEAR'S HAT A NEW "LIFT" WITH GAY FLOWERS

By Sara Jane Reish
(Assistant Home Economics Representative)

A new hat is like a spring tonic to the average woman. Every woman loves a new hat and this spring she might decide to remodel some of her old ones.

Possibilities for making new hats from old ones are endless. The beret can be either large or small. This year a new touch can be a jeweled clip or pin placed on the front curve. Last year's straw sailor may be freshened by adding a new ribbon and veiling. A newer treatment would be to load the brim with flowers or crushed colorful ribbon.

If the hat with a very high crown and narrow brim is becoming, it might be made from an old hat which already has a deep crushed crown. This could be re-blocked over a jar or can to give the new shape. These high crowns frequently are draped with a wide band of colored ribbon which might be a hair ribbon or sash that has ben saved. Old ribbons should be cleaned or washed and carefully pressed before being used.

A hat that is faded or worn in spots may be used for a half-hat by cutting the good section from the crown. This hat may be trimmed with bunches of spring flowers, fruit, or ribbon with possibly a wisp of veiling added. If old veiling is used, press it carefully so it is crisp.

In making over a hat, be sure the material is clean. Felt may be brushed with a brush or whisk broom to remove loose dust. Wallpaper cleaner may be used to remove more of the soil but it won't take out grease. Cleaning fluid applied with a lintless cloth or tissue paper can be used for greasy stains. For stubborn soil or where powder and perspiration have become imbedded in the band, use very fine sandpaper and rub lightly.

Steaming felts over a rapidly boiling teakettle also freshens them. Drooping hat brims may be straightened by placing them on a well-padded board and pressing with a damp cloth and warm iron. After either steaming or pressing, allow the felt to dry thoroughly on the block or board to keep the desired shape.

FUR BEARING RAT

VANCOUVER, B. C. — (INS) — Even rodents are making the trip across the Pacific to this continent, according to naturalists at the University of British Columbia. Trappers along the Koksilah River and Someno Creeks district of Vancouver Island reported to University officials recently that they have been finding a new type of fur bearing rat. Specimens show that the animal is of Siberian origin and apparently came to this continent by way of one of the Russian ships loading lumber at Cowichan Bay.

Britain on one hand, and Russia on the other, at least had learned yesterday that neither side was bluffing—that amicable negotiation was the only answer.

Meanwhile U. S. Secretary of State Byrnes, British Sir Alexander Cadogan and representatives of the small nations on the Council had won their point in getting the full gist of Iran's complaint before the world.

The Council was wading into a somewhat uncertain sea in continuing deliberations today, even in executive session, unless Gromyko was in attendance. The charter of the United Nations specifically states that all 11 members shall be present in continuous session.

Today's meeting, with press and radio barred, was deliberately delayed until 4 p. m., EST. Original plans called for Iranian Ambassador Husselin Ala to continue to present his case against Russia and answer questions from the delegates.

In addition to the complaint that Russia still had thousands of troops in Iran past the March 2 treaty deadline for withdrawal, diminutive Ambassador Ala already has leveled serious charges against the Soviet Union. He charged that Russia was demanding:

1. A 51 per cent control of Iran's oil resources;

2. Establishment of an autonomous state in Azerbaijan, northern province of Iran touching on the Russian border — which would, however, in effect be under the thumb of Moscow;

3. Retention of Red troops in certain parts of Iran indefinitely.

These charges were at an absolute opposite pole from the statements Russian Ambassador Gromyko made to the Council just before he walked out. Gromyko contended there was no longer any difference between Moscow and Teheran; that Red troops would be completely out of Iran in five to six weeks, and that culminating negotiations on other issues were proceeding in the most satisfactory manner.

Gromyko had attempted to postpone any consideration of the Iranian-Russian dispute until April 10—obviously with the thought in mind that by that time the whole issue could be ironed out, at least to the point where Iran would withdraw her complaints.

The Council can, therefore, stall along on the matter until April 10, and Russia then must return to the deliberations including consideration of Iran's charges. This was one method of handling the situation.

Inversely, Russia can be charged with violating the charter, to which she had subscribed, when she walked out temporarily yesterday.

Intricate parliamentary tactics are certain to be brought into play in the next few days.

PLAN REDEDICATION OF BAPTIST CHURCH

Davisville Congregation Has Had Bldg. Remodeled; To Replace Chapel

RAISE SUM OF $10,000

DAVISVILLE, Mar. 28 — Rededication ceremonies are planned for the Davisville Baptist Church, Street road, which has just been remodeled.

The service of rededication will occur on Sunday next, just 97 years after the congregation was organized.

Approximately $10,000 has been spent in reconditioning of the original church building, the sum being secured from gifts and from the sale price of the small chapel which has been used for services over a period of years. The church building proper was used only on rare occasions recently. But with needs growing the chapel became too small to accomodate the group, and enlarging and remodelling of the church for use was the decision made. A new educational unit is proposed.

The Davisville Baptist Church was formed by a nucleus of members of Southampton Baptist Church who withdrew from that congregation over matters of church policy.

A meeting was held at the house of Elder Alfred Earle at Southampton on March 1, 1849, where a resolution of protest and withdrawal dated Oct. 14, 1848, and signed by 29 members were presented and unanimously approved. The protest set forth specific objections to church policy.

March 31, 1849, a meeting was held at the Davisville Schoolhouse when the preamble and Covenant of the Independent Baptist Church was adopted and the constitution of that Church was approved. The pastor of the mother church, Alfred Earle, was one of the seceders and he became the first pastor of the new organization, with John Potts and Bernard Vanhorne as deacons.

On June 16, 1849, the following resolution is noted from the old Minute Book, "Resolved, that we purchase the lot next to Mr. Search's Orchard ." It was. A church building was erected in 1849. The new building was of stone, 33x45 feet, and cost $1500 to build. Services were first held in the new meeting house on Jan. 1, 1850.

In 1866-67 it was changed into the present commodious house of worship at a cost of about $7,000. The dedication services of the new meeting house were held Dec. 26, 1867.

In 1915 the present Chapel and Sunday School rooms located in the village of Southampton was erected and was in constant use until last fall.

The following pastors have served the church: Alfred Earle, 1849-56; Frederick Kent, 1857-58; Charles Cox, 1858-60; James H. Appleton, 1860-61; Alfred Earle, 1861-62; Thomas Cole, (Supply for six mos.); W. H. Conrad, 1862-76; S. B. Marsh, 1876-83; Philip Berry, 1883-88; D. W. Sheppard, 1880-01; John A. Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

WANT TO GARDEN? Don't know how? It can be simple—get expert advice. Expensive? No! Just build up a little library of gardening books. Begin with one or two. The Snellenburg Book Dept. is noted for its gardening books. To mention a few, there's "Gardeners' Handbook" at $1.49, "We Farm for a Hobby (and make it pay)" $1, "Garden Flowers in Color" $2.49, "Vegetable Encyclopedia" $1, "Flower Encyclopedia" $1. Ask to see others. Most of the books are very well illustrated and—tip—they'll make wonderful Easter gifts! (1st fl.)

EASTER GESTURE. What could please more the heart of a gardener, for an Easter gift, than a box filled with packets of fresh flower seeds—good "Burpee" brand? The Snellenburg Garden Corner has a remarkable offering, for yourself or others It is a pretty box containing packets of Blue Morning Glories, Yellow Cosmos, Mixed Snapdragons, Alyssum, Bachelor Buttons, Giant Zinnias, Marigolds, Petunias, Portulaca, Forget-Me-Nots, etc. A $2.20 value for a mere $1. Imagine! (1st fl.)

MATURE CHIC characterizes the new $3.75 Snellenburg hats for matrons. The Main Floor Millinery Department has a reputation for these hats that have both dignity and youthfulness. Select one of the shining "peanut" straws glamorized with flowers, or one of the flattering tailored types, in other materials, ribbon trimmed. It's amazing how a new spring hat of the right kind lifts the spirit and the face. No need to let an Easter go by without fresh millinery at such a reasonable price! Other Main Floor beauties from $1.85 to $7.50. (1st fl.)

HE'LL APPRECIATE a box of the famous "Irvington" cigars made exclusively for Snellenburgs and their patrons. These cigars—I am assured by an expert—are mild and fragrant. This same male vowed that even a fussy wife wouldn't object to the pleasant odor! "Irvingtons" sell at two for 15c or $3.75 a box. Buy at the Smoke Corner, or order by mail or phone for prompt delivery. Another idea for Easter—The Smoke Corner has an array of new pipes that you should see. A knowing clerk will help you to select the right kind. (1st fl.)

CONVENIENT PAYING for Snellenburg purchases is just one of the pleasant services of this traditional store. There is the "Coupon Plan," a deferred payment arrangement after paying one third down. The "coupons" can be used as cash throughout the store. A "Budget Plan" is for the larger household articles. One third to one fifth is paid down and the balance of payments can be paid over a period of time. Goods bought are delivered upon the first payment. A small carrying charge is made. (See office—5th fl.)

SUIT HANDBAGS are at their handsomest in the Snellenburg top-grain cowhides of natural color tan. They come in several leading spring styles, including top-handle and under-arm designs. You'll like the linings and the two pockets with which most of them are equipped. Looking at the bags, I was quite sure that they must be priced at fifteen dollars and upward. When I found that the price was but $7.50 I could scarcely wait for the column time to tell you about them! I want one for myself and one for Easter gifting! Handbag Dept. (1st fl.)

GIFT LOVELINESS is personified in all-crystal electrified hurricane lamps and candelabra. Until very recently these have been scarce indeed. But now we have several glittering, beautiful designs awaiting your selection in the Lamp Dept. of the Snellenburg store. Brides-to-Be are exclaiming over them, wishing that they will be so gifted. Here is where you come in. The Snellenburg beauties are generously sized, generously prismed. The "hurricanes" are priced from $15.90 to $39.95 a pair; "candelabra" from $49.95 to $150. Do see them, whether you buy or not, for sheer beauty's sake! (4th fl.)

NEVER ENOUGH ashtrays, are there? Why not imitate me and buy a set of eight exquisite little aluminum ones, cigarette size? The Gift Dept. on the Snellenburg second floor has these sets, in sportsman designs of wild ducks or feminine designs of roses, all with dainty pie-crust edges. The aluminum is in excellent weight, and satin finished. At $1.25 a set, the trays make nice gifts for home or friends. (2nd fl.)

JOBS ARE SCARCE, APPLICANTS NUMEROUS

Intensive Drive is Planned In State in Order to Line Up Positions

TO SCOUR INDUSTRIES

A special meeting of all managers of United States Employment Service offices in the Philadelphia area was called recently by Levy Anderson, Area USES Director, to formulate plans for participation in the state-wide intensive drive to line-up more jobs for returning veterans, displaced war workers and other idle workers.

"We intend to scour all industries in the Philadelphia area," Anderson declared, "to obtain jobs for the flood of former servicemen and civilian workers now applying at USES offices for employment." He said approximately 40,000 of the 80,000 applicants listed were ex-servicemen.

"At the present time we have on file only 8,000 job openings and these must be substantially increased if we are to meet a new high in job applications anticipated during the next four months," he said.

The important part that Veterans' Employment Representatives in local offices will play in securing job opportunities for returned servicemen was stressed at the meeting by Paul Murphy, assistant State Veterans' Employment representative. He pointed out three ways in which this could be accomplished: (1) The establishment of local veterans' committees in the area to serve in spreading information to employers of the skills represented by returned veterans; (2) Contact with local offices of various veteran posts to explain the veteran employment program and what is needed for veterans; (3) To check on veterans' registration cards to see that they are properly coded so the right man may be sent to the right job.

Anderson also stressed to the managers the importance of keeping veterans informed on the training programs available in many of the plants in the area.

In accepting the responsibility for the placement of veterans and displaced war workers, he said the United States Employment Service throughout its entire personnel must leave no stone unturned to accomplish the job ahead of them.

The office of the United States Employment Service serving the local area is located at 216 Mill street.

Good Gravy Adds Nourishment To Meal

A tasty meat gravy is considered an essential part of many meat dishes, whether it be served on the meat or along with it. Gravy supplies important nutritional values, and adds to the enjoyment and satisfaction of the meal.

Eating gravy on bread may be an old-fashioned custom, but it is still a "pet weakness" of a great many people who delight in good food! Others like their gravy on mashed or baked potatoes, hot biscuits, dumplings, bread dressing, boiled rice or noodles.

Of course, the gravy must be good gravy! Some people like pan gravy best; others prefer a thickened gravy or meat sauce, which may vary from a thin to medium sauce consistency. This type of gravy should be smooth and free from lumps, thoroughly cooked, of a pleasing color, well-flavored and well-seasoned.

Gravy at its best is made in the pan in which the meat was cooked, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist. The browned meat particles in the pan improve both the flavor and color of the gravy. For the benefit of the newer cooks, Miss Cline offers this basic recipe for Brown Gravy.

Brown Gravy

3 to 4 tablespoons meat drippings
3 to 4 tablespoons flour
2 cups water, vegetable liquid or soup stock
Salt and pepper

Pour off all fat from pan in which meat was cooked. Measure back 3 to 4 tablespoons, depending on consistency desired. Add an equal amount of flour. Stir until flour is well browned. Add water or stock, stirring constantly. Bring to boil and boil 3 to 5 minutes. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Cream gravy is made with all or part milk for the liquid; this is a favorite to serve with pork. Tomato gravy, made with tomatoes or tomato juice, is a popular variation to serve with meat loaf or braised beef steak. Sour cream gravy is excellent with veal.

Almost any kind of herb or condiment may be used (with discretion) to season the gravy. For interesting variations—add sliced onions, diced celery, or mushrooms; these should be cooked in the drippings before the flour is added. For something more unusual, crumble a few ginger snaps into the gravy, to give it a delicious, spicy flavor.

Pennsylvania Recipes Offer Hearty Eating

The fine cooking of Pennsylvania Dutch housewives is justly famous. Many of their traditional dishes are made from recipes which came originally from middle and northern Europe; but they have been modified by time and influenced by the rich abundance of Eastern Pennsylvania farms.

These people were very hospitable, and their tables were heavily laden with a great variety of substantial dishes. While modern methods of cooking may have altered the recipes in many cases, one still finds the old favorites served in the homes and the best hotels of this region, says Jessie Alice Cline, home economist.

The following are erely a few of the famous Pennsylvania Dutch dishes. Others that deserve to be mentioned include Baked Spareribs and Sauerkraut, Sauerbraten (a sour pot-roast), Philadelphia Pepper Pot (a hearty soup made with honeycomb tripe), Potato Pancakes, and Apfelstrudel.

Schnitz un Knepp

(Dried Apples and Dumplings)

1 quart dried apples (sweet)
3 pounds ham
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg, well beaten
Milk (about 2/3 cup)
3 tablespoons melted lard

Wash apples and soak overnight in water to cover. In the morning, cover ham with cold water and simmer for 3 hours. Add apples and water in which they were soaked; continue cooking 1 hour more. Add sugar. Make dumpling batter by sifting together the flour, baking powder, salt and pepper, and stirring in the egg, milk and melted lard. Drop batter by spoonfuls into the hot liquid with the ham and apples. Cover closely and cook for 15 to 18 minutes. Serve piping hot on a large platter. Serves 8 to 10.

Pennsylvania Scrapple

Clean a pig's head, cover with water, simmer until the meat comes off the bones. When cold, chop meat fine. Skim fat carefully from the broth, strain the liquid, and return to heat. When it boils, add corn meal and cook to a soft mush. (Use 1 cup corn meal for 1 to 2 cups of meat.) Add meat, and season highly with salt, pepper, and powdered sage. Cook slowly 1 hour over very low heat. Turn into pans and cool. When firm, cut in thin slices and fry until crisp and brown.

(Note: Any cut of fresh pork can be used, such as the shoulder or fresh hocks. The dish may also be made with left-over cooked pork, if desired.

Wiener Schnitzel

(Breaded Veal Cutlet)

2 pounds veal round steak, cut ½-inch thick
Salt and pepper
Fine cracker or bread crumbs
1 egg, beaten with 2 tablespoons water
¼ cup lard or drippings
Lemon juice
6 eggs

Cut veal steak in 6 pieces for serving. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Dip in crumbs, then in beaten egg, and again in crumbs. Let stand 15 minutes. Brown on both sides in melted lard; cover and finish cooking at low temperature about 30 minutes more, or until tender. Fry eggs. Sprinkle meat with lemon juice, and garnish each serving with a fried egg.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Ben Ryder and the Wanderlust

During the war, Ben Ryder talked about the trips he'd take when gasoline rationing was ended. Used to pore over roadmaps—checking mileages and charting routes.

Now Ben's taking quite a lot of ribbing. Soon as rationing was lifted, he decided he liked staying home, puttering in the garden, playing chess, sharing a pleasant glass of beer with friends.

"Shucks," admits Ben sheepishly, "as soon as you can go, then it's just as good as having gone! You might as well stay home ... enjoy your friends and family."

From where I sit, that's a pretty common trait in human nature.

Take that glass of beer, for instance. During Prohibition, Ben was nursing an insatiable thirst. But come repeal, Ben suddenly finds he's happy with a friendly, moderate glass of beer—and nothing more. Yep—just tell folks the sky's the limit, and they'll settle for a piece of friendly earth.

SPECIAL AIR 'COVER' TO MARK A JUBILEE

Commemorative Cover Arranged For Farm School Anniversary

1ST ONE TO TRUMAN

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 28—A commemorative air mail cover honoring "Famous Farmers of America" will be issued in a limited edition to be mailed as part of the Golden Jubilee program marking the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the National Farm School, near Doylestown, it was disclosed today. The cover is designed to encourage support of agricultural education in schools and colleges throughout the country, Leon Merz, chairman of the institution's board of trustees explained.

The first mailing will be on "Charter Day," April 10, at the Farm School Post Office, since the Charter of the school was signed on April 10, 1896. All covers will carry postage stamps of three past Presidents of the United States symbolizing "Famous Farmers of America," living or dead.

The first cover will be addressed and mailed to "President Harry S. Truman, Farmer," at the White House, the second to Clinton Anderson, Secretary of Agricultre, while the third will go to Henry A. Wallace, Agriculturist, Washington, D. C. The remaining covers, it was announced, will be mailed to those whose requests are received first at the National Farm School. Each cover will be numbered consecutively and mailed in the order of receipt of the request.

All covers will be mailed from and will be postmarked, "Farm School, Pa."

The cover will bear a reproduction of an original sketch by Lu Kimmel, noted American illustrator, depicting the historic meeting of Count Leo Tolstoy and the late American Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf in Russia. It was Tolstoy's counsel that led the clergyman, a Philadelphian, to found National Farm School in 1896 as a school of agriculture mainly for city boys.

The edition will be limited to a total of 1,000 covers to be mailed between April 10 and April 30. Washington, Jefferson and Roosevelt stamps, representing "Famous Farmers of America" among the nation's past Presidents will be used in the mailing.

Notes From Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Mar. 28—(INS)—The Department of Internal Affairs has reported that 6,077,346 scales and measuring devices were inspected in Pennsylvania during the fiscal year ended November 30, 1945. . . . Of the devices inspected, 130,671 were defective.

"The Pennsylvania Department of Highways has not issued a new road map this year to date but plans are underway to print and distribute a 1946 official Pennsylvania road map sometime during the late spring," Secretary John U. Shroyer has emphasized. . . . Shroyer explained that there had been some misunderstanding about a new road and pictorial map recently released by the Commerce Department.

Pennsylvania's three state tuberculosis sanatoria represent a total investment in land and buildings of $20,300,000 by taxpayers, the Health Department has disclosed. . . . Sanatoria are located at Mt. Alto, Franklin County, Cresson, Cambria County, and Hamburg, Berks County. . . . The three institutions have a total bed capacity of 3326. . . . Mount Alto, the oldest and largest of the establishments, was founded in 1903.

A Department of Forests and Waters news release has stated: "It would be wonderful if the person who throws that lighted cigarette from his car was stopped and forced to help fight the forest fire it started."

BEAGLE CLUB AT NEW HOPE HOLDS 1ST FIELD TRIAL

Game Plentiful for Thrilling Drives; Contests Are Close

LIST THE PLACEMENTS

Sponsoring Club is But One Year Old; Interest Is Very Keen

The New Hope Beagle Club held its first A. K. C. sanctioned trial, Saturday, Mar. 16. Drawings began at 8.30 a. m. at Magill's club house, and the committee chairman, Wilfred Lobley, gave the first brace of all-age, 13-inch hounds to the judges a half-hour later. The field marshall, T. Delford Naylor, led the group of handlers and gallery across the road into a reforestation project and rabbits began to run, in fact, so much potential quarry started it was confusing to all participants.

These grounds were heavily stocked for the club's initial trial in 1945, and fed with more game by purchase in 1946 Judges, Roy Bundick, Philadelphia, and Paul Edwards, detective from the police force of Camden, N. J., said they had never seen game as plentiful at any trial anywhere. The country is rolling, easy for the gallery to follow and see practically all of each run. It was a beautiful spring day, and a pleasure to be outdoors. Thrilling drives, with close contests, made it as near perfect as possible.

Preliminary trials were finished by noon. After lunch the finals were run. A few entries were called back in four combinations before decisions could be made.

Thirteen-Inch All-Age, 25 entries: 1st, "Franz Mac," Edward Bonfrancesco, Bristol, Pa.; 2nd, "Sked's Bud," William Elliot, Trenton, N. J.; 3rd, "J. R. Lucky," Joseph Reznichak, Perth Amboy, N. J.; reserve, "Willie's Bell," Willard Crouthamel, Perkasie, Pa.

Nine 13-inch Derby contestants showed up. They were judged by James R. Bowers, of Pottersville, N. J., and Bernard Ashton, of Lambertville, N. J., with the following results:

1st, "Butchie's Little Nellie," Lewis Dunlap, Hulmeville, Pa.; 2nd, "Andy of Russkill," Scott Worthington, Lambertville, N. J.; 3rd, "Dee Dee's Dot," Wilfred Lobley, New Hope, Pa.; 4th, "Steelman's Dixie Lee," L. Steelman, Hatboro, Pa.; reserve, "Lady of Russkill," Russell Kilmer, Lambertville, N. J.

The 15-inch class was held over until Sunday, 17th, which was entirely different weather, intermit tent rain, and strictly a March day, but enthusiasm was as strong as ever, and game just as plentiful. The same judges officiated.

All-Age, 15-Inch; 23 entrants:

1st, "Skimpy's Boy," Jorgan J. Land, Woodbridge, N. J.; 2nd, "Pocohantas Raider," Charles A. Young, Germantown, Pa.; 3rd, "Norse of Russkill," Fred Jaeger, Trenton, N. J.; 5th, "Flip of Russkill," Thomas Delford Naylor, New Hope, Pa.; reserve, "New Hope Pat," Carswell Ashton, New Hope, Pa.

Fifteen-Inch Derbies; three entries:

1st, "Ben's Spot," Benjamin Priekop, Perth Amboy, N. J.; 2nd, "Butchie's Indian Drum, Lewis Dunlap, Hulmeville, Pa.; 3rd, "Butchie's Pal Sport," Lewis Dunlap, Hulmeville, Pa.

The club sponsoring these trials is barely a year old, affiliated with the New Hope Fish, Game and Forestry Protective Association. The officers are: President, L. Steeleman, Hatboro, Pa.; secretary, Leo Thompson, Center Bridge, Pa.; chairman of trial committee, Wilfred Lobley, New Hope, Pa. It began with a "bush" trial in the fall of 1945, and the success of that attempt provided the incentive to join the A. K. C. and go after the Field Trial game seriously. They have 56 members, and the parent organization about 225 names on their rolls.

KNOW YOUR STATE

One of the most remarkable phenomena of the past few years in American life has been the revival of interest in many forms of arts and crafts, even in years when America's immense war effort occupied so great a share of our national attention. In our Army camps this interest was keen, and some of the finest speciments of craft work produced in the past five years have been work of men in uniform, many of whom are now turning to the production of handwork in metals, ceramics and textiles as a means of livelihood.

To a Pennsylvanian one of the most gratifying developments in this field has been the growingrecognition of the beauty and originality of Pennsylvania's folk arts, but our States claim to a high place in modern arts and crafts does not rest solely on that fine tradition.

This fact is strikingly illustrated in a display of contemporary handwoven textiles in the State's Historical Museum at Harrisburg. The exhibition first held last December in Louisville, Kentucky, was open to all American handweavers. At the Louisville exhibition the opening day was dedicated to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, because of its progress in stimulating its native crafts, and the catalog of the exhibition contained a foreword by Governor Edward Martin. One of the first awards for textiles was won by a Pennsylvanian, and many other Pennsylvania exhibitors, including a nine-year-old school girl from Harrisburg, were among those honored in this nation-wide exhibition.

Those who are interested in the beautiful products of modern American hand arts will find great satisfaction in attending the exhibition now being held in the Harrisburg Museum, and in visiting the statewide exhibit of all Pennsylvania crafts to be held in April at the Philadelphia Art Alliance.
